Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

The war of nerves has given way to real war. Hitler couldn't wait. The house painter has a job to do; repainting the map of Europe in crimson human blood. Chamberlain's umbrella is at last unfurled to protect the smaller nations of Europe including Poland, as much as Britain can, from the German war storm. The French, probably the toughest nation on the continent of Europe, led by the best military man of the Old World, have tossed their cock into the Martian pit. The Poles, fighting to preserve their twenty-five year old Republic, re-nationalized after a century of subjugation, are expected to hold Germans for at least three months while French and English seek out vunerable spots in the German phalanx.

All the world will suffer as a result of the brain storm of a simple, ignorant, Austrian peasant, who imagines himself to be the savior of Teutonic peoples. In time to come historians will marvel at the rise and fall of a fanatic, who involved the German nation in its second Armageddon only 21 years after the agony of its first. And of all the world, the German people will suffer the most, just as they did in the last war. Hitler wishes a "lightning war." He expects to overrun Poland and then turn to Poland's allies, with a fait accompli. In effect he hopes to say: "It is done. Why now continue the war?" Hitler has learned nothing from the last war. Then the French and British did not lay down their arms until they had beaten Germany. They will not do so this time. The stakes are more than Polish independence. The stake is again the peace of Europe which must be maintained if all the youth of all the nations die for it.

From now on we shall be inundated with appeals of France and England to aid the just cause. It is a just cause. Europe must come to terms eventually and its nations consent to live in peace, to live and let live. But it is not our war. Indeed, if the plan of President Wilson, had been adopted in good faith by all nations there would never have been another war in all probability. This country is partially to blame for the failure of the League of Nations and its machinery for adjusting in orderly manner the conditions among nations which lead to war. But still it is not our war. We can stay out of it, and be enormously greater help in the world's rehabilitation after the war, than we can if we consent to involvement.

Everyone who believes passionately in maintaining our democracy, in avoiding entanglement in Europe's quarrels, must now be vigilantly active against any action on our part which will result in our participation in Europe's war. We do not want a dictator in this country, but we shall have one the moment we cast in our lot with European democracies. For just as Chamberlain and Daladier have powers of dictators in their respective democracies, so shall we if we join them in war.

At the first sign of any yielding to the appeals of England or France on the part of our administration at Washington, the people of the United States, collectively and individually should deluge their representatives in Congress with protests. Let us as a nation at least not prove as stupid as the Germans are as a nation. We have had our lesson in foreign wars. It has cost us hundreds of thousands in dead and maimed for life. It has cost us billions upon billions of dollars, a great part of which consists of the repudiated debts of the very nations that will now beg for our help. That is our lesson. Let us con it well.

It should be our part, and the part of all neutrals, when the war is done, to bind up the wounds of victor and vanquished, to restore in so far as a good neighbor may, order from the chaos and wreckage of war, to uphold, and defend, it may be, in a world governed by a new set of dictators, the standards of democracy, and to bring, in so far as we can, understanding and peace among the nations of earth.

Mr and Mrs. John Darke and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stenger motored to Sacramento yesterday and are enjoying the circus and state fair.

To Complete Narrows Dam Ahead Of Time

By CARL STARKEY

Belief that the giant Yuba Narrows dam will be completed from one to two month ahead of schedule was voiced recently by dam officials. Work will terminate, they said, in October or November, 1940.

Shifts totaling 300 men have been working night and day on the $4,000,000 project. 190,000 cubic yards of rock and soil have been removed from the damsite, with only 35,000 yards yet to go. Crews have been blasting at the sides of the Narrows canyon while bulldozers and steam shovels dig down to bed rock.

The pouring of concrete is expected to start October 10. Bins have been built above the top level of the dam and a cement mixing plant with a capacity of 1,000 yards daily is being installed. Materials will be obtained from a sand and gravel grading and washing plant below Parks Bar bridge 4 1-2 miles from the dam. Ten ten-ton trucks will be used to transport the sand and gravel.

Concrete will be poured into forms from three inch cables, weighing 42,000 pounds each, suspended between towers on each side of the Narrows. A total of 330,000 cubic yards will be poured in this fashion.

During the pouring the Yuba river will be diverted from the damsite by means of flumes running along the side of the project.

The Yuba Narrows dam, the largest single construction of its type in this vicinity, is the second of the series of three dams in this area. The first, on the north fork of the American river, has been completed, while contracts have not yet been awarded for the third, the Ruck-a-Chucky. Bids have been accepted and the award is expected to be made in the near future.

The Narrows dam is being built by Arundel, Inc., and L. E. Dixon Co. under the supervision of army engineers. George E. Goodall, of the United States army, was the designer.

It will give tremendous impetus to the progress of Nevada County for it will make possible the hydraulicing of the vast gravel deposits in the county, especially along San Juan Ridge and recovery of millions of dollars worth of gold contained in these deposits.

TEACHERS MAY HOLD INSTITUTE AT WORLD FAIR

County and city superintendents of schools in the Northern Section have been asked by President J. N. Gardner of the California Teachers' Association, Northern Section, to express a preference between Sacramento and Treasure Island, San Francisco, as the location of the 1939 institute.

The institute has been held for several years in Sacramento without deviation, and the proposal to hold the session in San Francisco in 1939 has received support in several counties belonging to the association.

Final decision on the matter will probably be reached April 15 in Sacramento, when superintendents and officials of the teachers' organization hold a joint meeting in Sacramento.

James N. Gardner, president of the Northern California section of the California Teachers' Association announced this week the bi-annual institute of the organization has been see for November 20, 21 and 22.

The institute has been moved ahead one week to conform to President Franklin D. Roosevelt's change of Thanksgiving Day.

Gardner expects to release the institute program for the new dates shortly.

The following committees, composed of Northern California educators, will continue to serve through the institute, at which time new officers will be chosen for two year terms:

Legislative: W. J. Burkhard, Sacramento; H. B. Bonnet, Sacramento; Homer H. Cornick, Davis; Roy Learned, Sacramento; James C. Nisbit. Oroville.

MANY MINE LOCATIONS FILED IN NEVADA COUNTY

Between 20 and 30 new mine locations were made after noon September 1 in Nevada county according to County Recorder John Nettle. Moratorium on mining claims was started first under ex-President Hoover in the last year of his term. It has been continued for six years and this year claim holders were given three months moratorium on assessment work.

DOWNEY IS NOT THIRD TERMITE

By CLEM WHITAKER

California's 1940 presidential primary, according to well-authenticated reports along the political Rialto, will bring Governor Culbert L. Olson and U. S. Senator Sheridan Downey—the Democratic standard-bearers of 1938—to a definite parting of the ways.

Governor Olson already has made it known that he favors President Roosevelt for a third term, and the Olson stalwarts are busily mapping plans to capture the California delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Senator Downey, it can be definitely stated, will NOT support the President for a third term—and in all probability will head an opposing delegation, pledged to another candidate.

Mr. Downey, the most potent and eloquent single handed campaigner in the Democratic party in California—and a considerable factor in the party nationally due to his Townsend pension following—has made no commitments as to the presidential candidate, he will back. His friends report, however, that he leans toward Burton K. Wheeler, Democratic U. S. Senator from Montana. On one point, in discussions with his intimates, he has been emphatic and outspoken; he believes the Democratic party would be foredoomed to defeat if t again naminated Mr. Roosevelt!

California county clerks are burning the midnight oil this week in an effort to determine whether the Atkinson oil conservation act, designed to husband the state's valuable oil resources, shall become effective immediately, or whether it must be held up for a referendum vote of the people.

The fate of the Atkinson act, as well as that of the anti-loan shark bills, hangs on whether sufficient valid petition signatures were filed by opponents to force them to a referendum.

With thousands of signatures being thrown out as invalid, due to lack of registration or other causes, informed political circles report that the referendum against the Atkinson bill is likely to fall short some 15,000 or 20,000 names of the required number. A total of 132,573 valid signatures would be required on the referendum petitions to block effectiveness of the new conservation measure.

The referendum drive against the anti-loan shark bills, however, appears to have been successful.

INCENDIARY AND LIGHTNING FIRES PLAGUE DISTRICT

The Lime Kiln district below Grass Valley had two more incendiary fires yesterday morning both being near the school house. One started about four o'clock and the other at seven o'clock. The latter one burned five acres of brush before State Ranger W. F. Sharpe and crew reached the scene. Ranger Sharpe had another fire yesterday forenoon on the South Fork of Wolf Creek near the lower Dunn dam. During the forenoon a call came from the Rough and Ready section where a fire started in brush and caught a large digger pine. Three of the fires were extinguished before acreage of any extent was covered.

A 1200 acre grass and brush fire in Yuba county yesterday sent up huge clouds of smoke that drifted toward Nevada county. It was learned the blaze was in the Rice Crossing Colgate section near Bullards Bar dam. Yuba county fire fighting forces took care of this fire.

E. M. Stone, fire dispatcher for the forest service reports there were three lightning fires near Sardine Lake lookout and more lightning storms are predicted for today and tomorrow.

The Sardine Lake fire which started Saturday was brought under control last night by forest fire fighters and CCC boys. The fire burned over about 75 acres and was in the very steep rocky country where there was a tall heavy growth of brush making it a very hard fire to fight. There were 140 men on the fire lines for a time.

GOLD MEDAL IS WON BY BRET HARTE DAIRY

U. S. N. Johnson of the Bret Harte Dairy of Nevada City returned Saturday from the State Fair in Sacramento bringing home the highest or Gold Medal award for raw milk in the state exhibits. This is the seventh high award out of eight exhibitions that he has received.

Mr. Johnson was told by exhibitors, cattle breeders and herdsmen on the fair grounds that Roy and Everett Cunningham, dairymen who supply milk for Bret Harte Dairy have the best dairy herd they ever looked at. The two brothers have been offered fancy prices for their dairy and do not care to dispose of it. They purchase thoroughbred bulls and discard cull cows that would be considered first class by many dairymen, always keeping their stock at a high standard.

Cunningham brothers have one of the best dairy barns in the country and it is open to inspection to the public. The dairy is below Grass Valley on the Auburn highway.

Nevada County also won $150 for its display in the booth at the state fair.

MELVILL GRAVEL

It is reported Leo Bramley, Melville of North San Juan is making preparations to go to South America where his company has operating properties The office of the Melville interests in the National Hotel at North San Juan is being moved out and discontinued. However, it is stated the company is holding all properties taken over under option. The immense holdings extend from near San Juan to the Columbia Hill section. Extensive keystone drilling was done near Columbia Hill and about a 200 foot shaft was sunk in gravel. The company is an English one and unrest and final declaration of war between Germany and Poland brought an end to funds from England for mining operations, it is stated.

Mrs. Will Moulton has as guests her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spelker of Oakland.

Mrs. Robert Grant of Virgilia, Plumas county, is nursing Wade Armstrong of Nevada street.

Monster Motorcade From Nevada County To Visit State Fair

Fifteen hundred gold and black badges will be worn by Nevada County citizens when they join in a great motorcade to California's State Fair at Sacramento next Saturday. It is estimated that this many citizens will take the road to Sacramento on that day, leaving Nevada City at 8 o'clock in the morning and Grass Valley at 8:30 o'clock. Since Nevada County Day at the Fair is also Admission Day, it is believed that a large proportion of the population will motor down to the State Fair. A state highway patrol will escort the caravan from Nevada City to Sacramento.

One of the big events of the day will be a jackhammer contest between selected crews from Amador and Nevada counties. Olney Donnelly, president of the Mine Workers Protective League is said to have placed all the local rock drilling champions on the Nevada county team.

The yellow badges worn by Nevada county folks will admit them to a special section in the grandstand after the usual admission charge has been paid at the gate. On the program a song by Bill Tobiassen, son of Sheriff Tobiassen.

Departing entirely from the staid and formal type of exhibits of previous years and bringing a note of distinctiveness to the series of other displays that surround the walls and center islands of the main agricultural building, the Nevada county exhibit receives what other exhibitors feel is far more attention than the size of the county warrants.

Five oil paintings by Clifford L. Warner, Nevada City and Carmel artist, set Nevada county's display entirely apart and command immediate and fullsome praise. The oil paintings are approximately three by four feet in size and in one series depicts the mining types of the county—gravel, hydraulic and quartz. Two other oil paintings showing the county's recreational pursuits of fishing, hunting on one hand in the countless lakes and streams and the snow sports at the Donner summit on the other.

While the pictures are colorful and true to detail, they call attention to the other features of the exhibit. One entire side is taken up with a genuine old time hydraulic monitor. which saw service along the North San Juan ridge and was loaned by the people of that section. Another which commands interest because of unusual nature is a five foot chunk of rock core, taken from the 1100 foot round hole of Idaho No. 2 shaft of this city.

Large photographs of the Loma Rica rancho and horse farm cover one wall.

Principal displays and exhibit cases contain the counties presentation of gold, highlighted by Dr. Carl P. Jones Red Ledge nugget, which was recently brought up from the Golden Gate International Exposition where it was prominently displayed in the Treasure Mountain section of the Mines and Minerals palace.

Trays and cases present nuggets of quartz and placer gold, including some specimens of private collections in this county.

One shelf of trays shows typical gravel from the county's main gravel channels. The difference in color, texture and content of these gravels is readily visualized when they are observed side by side.

IN 4 YEARS WPA WORK IN COUNTY COSTS $510,485

The report of the Works Progress Administration for Northern California shows, in the four years between July 1935 and July, 1939, a total expenditure of $171,171,273. Of this amount $134,541,621 was provided by the Federal government, and $36,629,652 by various sponsors.

Nevada county in that four year period completed projects aggregating $510,485, of which the Federal government provided $331,023, and Nevada county and cities $179,462.

FELONY PENALTY DEMANDED FOR SETTING FIRES

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—An increase in the penalty for setting of forest fires was the recommendation of the North Coast Conservation Committee of the California State Chamber of Commerce, which met in Santa Rosa recently.

Basis of the recommendation was given by California's Deputy State Forester, C. G. Strickland, who compared fire damage this year with the year just passed. In 1938, there were 2,412 fires in California burning 111,00 acres. This year, to date, there have been 3,451 fires, burning over 371,000 acres. This shows a 45 per cent increase in the number of fires and an increase of more than 250 per cent in acres destroyed.

Penalty for starting forest fires at the present time is listed under the heading of misdemeanors. It is the contention of the State Chamber's North Coast Conservation Committee that this should be increased to a felony, in order that a more effective control over incendiary fires might be secured.

The recommendation will be forwarded to the California State Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, which meets in Sacramento on September 8. Definite action of the state wide body will be taken at that time.

DOVE HUNTERS SECURE LIMITS

A dove hunting party returned from the Sutter Buttes district last evening with limits of doves and plenty of sore shoulders. In the party were Louis Savio, Fred Pinch and son, R. K. Whitmore, Bob Davis, Charley Giani, Ralph Snider, Fred Schofield, Louis Orzalli. After a picnic lunch the party spread out to secure their limits of birds.

Elmer Durbin, wife, sister in law and Bill Buffington, Sr., and son brought in bags of doves on the opening day.

HOLIDAY TOUR

Raphael Hanahan of near Los Angeles arrived in Nevada City Friday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burr. On Saturday the group attended to business and went to the state fair in Sacramento. Afterwards they went to Prunedale and on to Watsonville, Santa Cruz and San Jose stopping in that city to visit Mrs. Burr's sister and husband. Tomorrow they will visit friends in Reno.

Miss Joan Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grant of Virgilia, and a graduate of the Nevada City high school, has just finished her first year in training as a nurse at Peter Brent Brigham hospital, Boston. She returned recently from a vacation in Montreal and Quebec where she was the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Anderson. Mrs. Anderson and Joan's mother graduated together at Mt. Sinai hospital, New York City.

A Veteran's Editorial

Aghast at the war clouds sweeping over Europe, a veteran of the Belgian army, now an American citizen, last week addressed his fellow Californians through the Columns of a San Francisco newspaper. He wrote:

"To the best country in the world: Please let us keep out of war. Let us keep in our own place—live in happiness and give God thanks for it. Why do I write this? Because I saw it all, went through it all. I was there when the first shell was fired at Belgium, and when the last was fired. I am the only one left out of a family of nine. Now I pray every day my gratitude that I was allowed to come here and live in peace and contentment. Please let us mind our own! And let us keep our America safe and clean. One who became an American—Ardis Mallard."

That simple appeal, based on tragic experience and written from the heart, is one of the most moving and patriotic editorials that has seen print. No comment could add to its force.—Contributed.

Labor and Taxation

It was Mr. Roosevelt who once said that "taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors," but that was a long time ago. Since he became President, there has been less emphasis on this solemn truth, and more on the dazzling thesis that the workingman somehow escapes the burden of taxation. Shortly after Mr. Roosevelt entered the White House in 1933, it was suddenly discovered that practically no one had any interest in taxes except the wicked wealthy, who could be squeezed ad infinitum for the general good.

If this were so, the great majority of Americans could afford to ignore the rising costs of government or at least face them in a levitous and happy mood. But unfortunately it is not so, for taxes are still paid as Mr. Roosevelt originally said they were, save that they are being paid in greater volume.

Among the organizations which subscribe to the idea that the worker is no more immune from taxes than he is from chilblains or influenza is the New York State Federation of Labor. That idea has just been buttressed by a federation survey which shows that the average workman in New York state pays a minimum of one dollar a day in hidden and indirect taxes. This daily tribute to the tax collector, it should be borne in mind, does not include taxes for which the worker is formally billed. The dollar minimum is made up of levies that are concealed in his cost of living, which help to inflate the cost of everything he buys, andof which he is either wholly unaware or at best vaguely conscious.

A classic example, of course, is the tax on cigarets. The worker in New York City pays a nine-cent tax on every package he buys, with the federal, state and municipal governments levying upon him. Like the worker in every other state, too, he pays federal and state taxes on gasoline, but that is on old story. only too familiar to him. What he probably does not sense is the vast number of other taxes which enter into the cost of producing virtually everything he needs and buys, and which inexorably demand of him his daily dollar contribution.

The federation, at any rate, thinks it worth while to publicize the amount of that contribution, and to lay stress upon the fact that it is a concealed or indirect contribution. For a worker who earns $1,500 a year, a dollar a day in taxes means considerably more than 20 per cent of his entire income, and that is paying taxes in the sweat of labor with a vengeance.

A committee of the federation has recommended that it take a stand against any hidden, discriminatory or punitive taxes in the future, and that it work for revision of present taxes of the sort; but whether the federation does so or not, it has at east recognized the face that taxes are not the exclusive concern of Mr. Roosevelt's economic royalists.

It is an encouraging sign, this disposition to face the realties of taxation. The pity of it is that the President, who once raced them so courageously, should have subsequently turned his back on them.— Minneapolis Morning Tribune.

Readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic

In most political campaigns where candidates compete for office, issues are decided largely on two of the old-fashioned "R's"—Readin' and 'Ritin.' Rival camps write stump speeches, radio harangues, and general ballyhoo—and Algernon X. Voter and his wife read or hear what is written to influence them, and then decide.

But in the 30-Thursday campaign the third old-time "R"—'Rithmetic—overshadows Readin' and 'Ritin' more than usual. The sensible voter can just sit down with his pencil and paper, for the answer to whether that plan is workable or ruinous seems to lie in cold figures.

Will the warrants increase public purchasing power, as claimed? Ally 'Rithmetic: Suppose a pensioner saves up his 30 weekly warrants for a year, then wants to cash them in. He'll find they are worthless. Why? Because each warrant, to be cashable at the year's end, must bear $1.04 cents in stamps purchased with real money—or a total—for the pensioner who wants to save all his pension warrants, of $1622.40—posted on the backs in stamps. And so, according to simple 'Rithmetic, each warrant adds nothing to the real store of circulating money, but rather, each week that it circulates, withdraws from circulation two cents in cash which must be stored for its redemption.

Which means, according to 'Rithmetic, that the warrant scheme—even if merchants and workmen and everybody would accept the scrip—amounts simply to the colossal tax of two per cent a week, or 104 per cent a year, for the use of each dollar a workman earns.

Whatever the Readin' and 'Ritin' ballyhoo may say on 30-Thursday—dependable, fool-proof, factual 'Rithmetic says "Vote NO!"—Contributed.

The "Wrath Grapes" Ripen

Typically American is the stand of the Associated Farmers in declining to take steps to suppress "Grapes of Wrath," the migrant problem novel in which author John Steinbeck assails California farmers and blames them for the hardships of the migrant hordes, sweeping in from other states.

In the first place, according to announcement by Harold E. Pomeroy, executive secretary of the Associated Farmers, the fact is frankly recognized that Mr. Steinbeck, an American writer, is entitled to publish his volume, however biased they may be or whether they are unjustly critical.

But the wisdom goes deeper. The farmers express themselves confident of vindication through general public understanding.

"While the book itself tends to incite hatred and class prejudice." is Mr. Pomeroy's penetrating observation, 'It is also serving the purpose of focussing national interest on the nationwide problem which to date has not received enough attention. We have been advocating a change of methods on the part of the federal government and the states in the Midwest from which these migrants come, so that the problem can be solved at its source, instead of continuing to be an increasing tax burden upon California."

In free America, liberty of expression virtually assures ultimate good. A justified attack may bring reform. An unjustified attack may be openly refuted and disproved. Much of Europe's class animosity, and religious and racial intolerance as well, perseveres today because too often only one side of any controversy—the side of those in dictatorial power—is permitted expression.

On a national problem,, seriously affecting California, Author Steinbeck may have his say, however biased and unfair—and California farmers may have their say. Quite probably, in the strong light of free discussion, the sour grapes of wrath will produce the sweet nectar of just solution. And that is as it should be—in America.—Contributed.

Five Millionth Visitor to Fair

Mrs. Ethel Wilson of Arcata, Calif., is being named Mayor of Treasure Island by Dr. Charles H. Strub, the Golden Gate International Exposition's managing director, after Mrs. Wilson wandered through the turnstiles to be clocked off as the 5,000,000th visitor. It was a surprise to her, a pleasure for Strub to greet the woman whose gate entrance made history.

VISITS ALL STATES

Miss Frances Pryor of Walnut Grove is spending the week end and Labor Day holiday in Nevada City with her sister Mrs. Ed Martine and Ed Martine. She has just completed a second tour of the United States. She left Berkeley and went by train via Portland, to Chicago and Pontiac taking delivery of a new car at the latter city. Her aunt joined her in Berkeley and they visited Niagara Falls, Callendar, Canada, to see the quintuplets. then down the Atlantic seaboard to Washington, D. C., New York world's fair and on into the southern states. They went to New Orleans, thence north to visit many national parks among them being Rushmore where three presdent's heads are carved into a bluff; the Bad Lands, Yellowstone, Glacier and again into Canada to visit Lake Louise and Banff. Old time friends were visited in Washington and from there to Grand Coulee dam, down the Columbia highway on through the redwoods along the California coast. They traveled over 9,000 miles after leaving Pontiac and went through 34 states. In continuing this trip Miss Pryor has visited every state in the Union.

Mrs. Imogene Henwood and R. Tenner of Nevada City met Mrs. Henwoods sister, Miss Ellen Curtis in Sacramento Saturday and spent the week end and Labor Day in San Francisco and on Treasure Island. They went to the ice frolc on Treasure Island and enjoyed the beautiful sight.

CAMPFIRE VIOLATORS ARE SENT TO JAIL

Fred Kinney and Edward D. Hendrickson of Los Angeles were tried in the court of Justice of the Peace John Runkle at Dutch Flat August 30 and each given a jail sentence of 12 and one half days, for building a camp fire without the necessary permit, according to information received here. Complaint in the case was signed by Elmer Baxter, propriteor of Baxter's resort, the men having built the fire in a very dangerous place with no axe and shovel available and without having made a fire line around it. The fire was just about to escape into surrounding cover where it probably would have started a major fire when it was discovered.

ADEQUATE WIRING for ELECTRILIVING

Here is a practical common sense way to make sure of good wiring in your home. Plan your convenience outlets where they will fit in best with your furniture. Are there enough outlets to serve the lamps, clocks, radios and other electrical appliances we all use in this day of ELECTRILIVING?

Are these outlets in the right places so that you will not have to run long cords along walls? Planning house wiring according to furniture arrangement in each room is the practical way to get a good wiring job.

Trying to get light and operate a washer and iron from a light socket cheats you by causing voltage drop.

Light is dimmer and toaster slower if you do this in your kitchen. This double plug ugly is a robber.

Down goes electric pressure when a three-way plug is used. Causes lights to go dim or blink.

Avoid the make-shift of double and triple plugs in the home you are building or remodeling. Give your electrical contractor an honest chance to do a complete and adequate wiring job. Remember a low price on a wiring job like a low price on most anything is not always the best bargain.

Crocheted Chair Set Goes Colonial

QUAINT with early American furniture, this chair seat and back are hand-crocheted in a Colonial pattern. Gaily colorful, blue stripes form large squares against a background of ecru, with a green petal motif worked into each alternate square. Crocheted in pearl cotton, it is a simple set to make, using the double crochet stitch throughout. Unusual patterns like this will play a prominent part in the Third National Crochet Contest when it takes place in the fall. Directions for crocheting this set, and details of The National Crochet Contest may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The National Crochet Bureau, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Specify chair set No. 7168.

A Bubble Vase For Aunt Carrie; Drill Steel To Gouge The Earth

What is "freight merchandise?" What's in those big and little packages, important-looking crates, lashed burdens in burlap? What rides in the fascinating dark interior of the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad carriers, slipping like smooth oil over broad highways to the thrum of sturdy motors? Everything! For the railroad, through its age-old dependability, its equality of rates, its reputation for conscieutious handling, serves one and all of a great public!

The same exacting consideration is given the handling of a cargo of dull, gleaming mine drill steel as is shown the dainty little excelsior shrouded box that carries a birthday gift of fragile glassware. For the first introduction of a Narrow Gauge freight driver to his job is the lesson of carefulness.

Occasionally—but so seldom as to be a minor issue in Narrow Gauge business, merchandise may be damaged in transit. It may be due to faulty packing, improper marking or a mishap humanly impossible to avoid. In such case your Railroad is eager in its adjustment—for each and every piece of merchandise is insured from the time it enters the railroad's custody until it is delivered.

"Safeguarded shipments" is one reason for the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad's expansion of service—prompting its institution of the already popular "4-HOUR SERVICE FROM SACRAMENTO." Scores of merchants in Grass Valley and Nevada City have already found how convenient it is to place orders for Sacramento merchandise before 11 in the morning and receive their shipment a little after 2 in the afternoon! It's a great service—well worthy of your trial.
